DentiMax, Inc. Releases All New Website

With a whole new look, the new DentiMax site showcases all its product lines

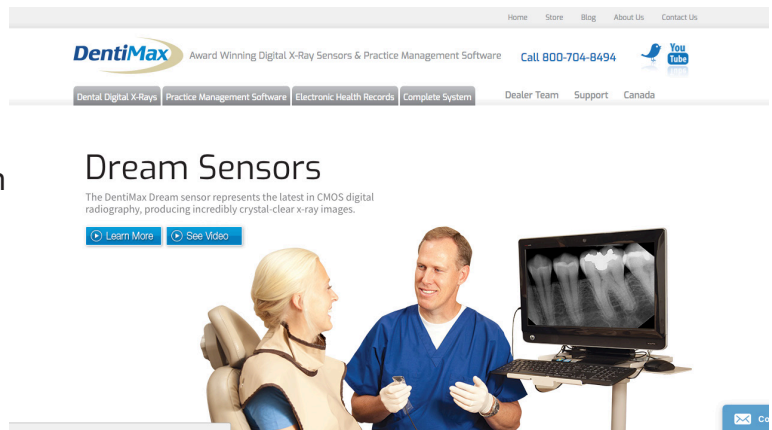

Mesa, AZ, August 22, 2014 - On August 22, 2014, DentiMax introduced an all new website, dentimax.com, designed to showcase digital sensors, practice management software and electronic health records. With the introduction of the new website, dental practices now have access to software tips, digital x-ray images and even remote technical support.

DentiMax Co-founder David Arnett explains, "As DentiMax has expanded from practice management to digital sensors and now to ONC certified electronic health records, we have found the Internet to be the perfect tool to educate and assist both our customers and prospects in understanding and effectively using our products. Our website's ability to deliver videos, demonstrations and communicate via instant messaging is invaluable to our clientele."
